Poland will soon assign economic counselors to all of its diplomatic representations abroad, to serve the representations in addition to the commercial attaches. The economic counselors will work mainly on market research and on advising the person at each representation responsible for economic affairs.

[redacted] Comment: If such a move is indeed to be implemented, it will contrast sharply with repeated Polish pronouncements on the urgent need to curtail personnel establishments. The possibility of a stepup in the intelligence effort, therefore, cannot be ruled out.
